An innovative cross-country Adelaide Hills–Margaret River blend that fuses the lemongrass and herbal notes of Margaret River, quite savoury, with more rounded, tropical Adelaide Hills fruit characters. The balance is nicely struck and the flavour lingers fresh on the palate.

Cherubino has long been aware of the handy combination of sauvignon blanc and Pemberton's cool, maritime influence. This has superb fresh citrus and zesty, mouth-watering tropical fruit aromas, gentle herbs too, really lively and vibrant. The palate brings smoothly ripened tropical fruits, mango, passionfruit and papaya, all seamlessly delivered with balance and style, finishing with nectarine and yellow peach. Sounds delicious? Well, it is!

Plenty of passionfruit and really lively, impressive fruit appeal here. This hails from a cool site near Forreston and has terrific intensity as a result. Really assertive passionfruit flavour on the palate too, and a crisp, direct and crunchy texture that holds flavour and freshness right through the finish. Delicious wine.

The Wicks sauvignon blanc is on the money in '09 with intense tropical fruit lift, plenty of ripe passionfruit here, and a hint of gooseberry. The palate delivers smooth, easy texture and the same mix of tropical fruits as the nose. Nice balance.
